

Praydoo Launches New Social Networking Website for Sharing Prayers

Written by Australian Business

GOTHENBURG, SWEDEN, September 17, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- The purpose of the website is to provide a forum for submitting and sharing prayers online. Key features that strongly differentiate this website from similar services on the internet are simplicity, user friendliness and a clear focus on social interaction. Adding a prayer is really quick and easy. The website has a simple yet powerful design that puts the emphasis on the prayers and their message. Having no banners or any other distracting elements, the website content is solely concentrated on the prayers themselves. Social interaction is encouraged by letting the users communicate directly with the person who prayed in order to give feedback or moral support. Prayers can also easily be shared on a large number of other social media, such as Facebook and Twitter. The service is completely free.

"We firmly believe that our website has an important role to play in bringing people closer to each other and to God" says the author of the website, Gabriel Kish. "Sharing prayers with others is a way for many people to find relief. Just knowing that you are not alone with your troubles provides great comfort and strength in difficult times".

The website has only been online for a few weeks but is already being used by an increasing number of people.

For more information, please visit <http://www.praydoo.com> or send an email to gabriel@praydoo.com