

LONDON, ENGLAND, September 18, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- The latest version of the extremely successful Google Nexus 7 tablet computer, which offers significant advances over its predecessor, is now available from BT Shop.

Thinner, lighter and faster than its best-selling predecessor, the second-generation Google Nexus 7.2 has evolved in a way which is typical of any device which bears the Google name.

More than 40 grams lighter, the Google Nexus 7 2 includes a rear-facing camera for the first time, while major enhancements have also been made to the seven-inch tablet's display, with resolution improved by a massive 50 per cent over its predecessor to produce the world's sharpest screen on a seven-inch tablet.

That means watching films in full high-definition will become an even more impressive experience, while photos will also be presented in crisp, lifelike detail. Reviewers at technology website T3.com said the quality of the Nexus 7 2's screen will "turn Apple green with envy".

The new Google Nexus 7 2 is also powered by a 25 per cent faster processor, and the RAM capacity is doubled, from 1GB to 2GB, so all kinds of tasks can be done much more quickly.

A new innovation on the second-generation Google Nexus 7, now available from BT Shop, is a 5MP rear-facing camera - and that's in addition to the 1.2MP front-facing camera carried by its predecessor.

The updated Google Nexus 7 2 also gets the latest version of its maker's Android operating system, 4.3 Jelly Bean. And like its predecessor, buyers can also access the massive range of apps available in the Google app store.

According to PC Advisor, the new Google Nexus 7 2 "offers better specs in every department" than the previous model - even going as far as incorporating full, cinematic surround sound.

The Google Nexus 7 2 can be ordered now from www.shop.bt.com for GBP239.98, while package deals which include a neoprene sleeve to protect the tablet wherever it goes, are also
