

Tabbuli Celebrates Charleston Restaurant Week with Appetizing "3 for $20" Menu

Written by Australian Business

CHARLESTON, SC, September 19, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- As a restaurant based in Charleston, South Carolina,

Tabbuli

--a noted Mediterranean tapas-style establishment--celebrates all things Low Country in this historic seaside community. Located at the corner of Concord and Market Street in beautiful Downtown Charleston, SC this restaurant is proud to participate in Charleston Restaurant Week, an event that celebrates the varied cuisine of the region and attracts locals and tourists alike to this one-of-a-kind culinary landscape.

A recent article from The Island Connection offers more information on this event presented by the Greater Charleston Restaurant Association. The article explains, "The Greater Charleston Restaurant Association, Inc. is beginning to roll out pricing and menus for Charleston Restaurant Week scheduled for September 4 - 15. Over one hundred and forty restaurants throughout the Low Country will offer prix fixe menus consisting of three items for one price. Participating restaurants will offer three items for $20, $30 or $40."

In a recent press statement, Tabbuli adds, "Charleston Restaurant Week is an exciting time for not only local restaurants, but the entire local economy. We are proud to participate in this event, as it will draw in a significant amount of business for the Charleston community and show visitors what the Low Country is all about. For locals, it is an exceptional opportunity to come out and explore the various cuisines offered by the city for an affordable price."

While the Tabbuli menu has proven to be a favorite among local diners for its mouthwatering tapas-style selections, the restaurant hopes to encourage more consumers to experience their top-notch Mediterranean cuisine during Restaurant Week. Throughout Charleston Restaurant Week, diners can enjoy a varied palate of dishes from a "3 for $20" menu.

From September 4th to the 15th, this Charleston-based restaurant will feature a strong selection of its finest appetizers, entrees, and desserts to Restaurant Week diners. Appetizers include the flavorful Mediterranean dip or Tabbuli Salad, paired with entrees such as the restaurant's noted Braised Lamb Shank and Grilled Kabob Platter. Diners will be able to round-off their delicious meal in true Mediterranean style by choosing from baklava or other selected dessert items.

"Our Charleston Restaurant Week menu is designed to offer local and visiting diners a chance to experience a strong selection of the flavors that we present as a restaurant. Not only do these options range from savory to sweet, but they all feature items made with the freshness that we celebrate," Tabbuli concludes in its recent press statement.

Tabbuli Celebrates Charleston Restaurant Week with Appetizing "3 for $20" Menu

Written by Australian Business

ABOUT:

Located at the corner of Concord Street and Market Street in Charleston, South Carolina, Tabbuli is a highly-rated restaurant that brings Mediterranean flair to the southern seaside. With varied brunch, lunch, and dinner menus, this restaurant and hookah lounge serves as a great spot for friends to relax and enjoy conversation over a delicious meal. While there are many single entrees to be enjoyed for the diner with a refined palate, this hot spot also features tapas-style dining options that are perfect for sharing. With a healthy children's menu and a fully-stocked bar with delicious drink specials, this restaurant continues to be a favorite for both family and late-night crowds in the Charleston area.