

ATLANTA, GA, September 19, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- The vaporizer pen seller, Vaporizer USA, would like to talk about whether investing in a vaporizer pen is a healthier option for your lungs. Smoking cigarettes is a habit millions of Americans partake in, including a large number of youth. Despite the thousands of chemicals that are consumed with each inhale of smoke, the nicotine addiction is too strong for most smokers to quit.

The portable vaporizer pen dealer says the products they carry are designed to be a healthier alternative. The main reason being that instead of combusting, the liquid or solid material that is inserted into the pen is vaporized. Due to the presence of advanced heating element technology, a vaporizer pen digitally controls the internal temperature of the substance, preventing it from reaching the point of combustion. This, the disco unt vaporizers supplier notes, is what makes these devices much safer than cigarettes.

According to Taylan Saydar, CEO of VaporizerUSA, "The main benefit to using vaporizers is that they prevent harmful chemicals and carcinogens from being inhaled. Since the substance is not being burned, these agents are never released in the first place. The risk of developing conditions like lung cancer or causing any harm for that matter to the body's respiratory system altogether is greatly minimized."

The vaporizer pen dealer also notes that most users report being able to breathe much easier, and that they don't experience a shortness of breath commonly associated with smoking.
