is currently available for download on the App Store for $0.99 in the Games category.

As accessible as it is addicting, Spirit Runner throws players into the shoes of Island Boy, and saying he loves to run - is an understatement. That said, the essence of the game is simple enough, help Island Boy to get as far as he can. The further players get - the higher their score climbs. The road ahead is anything but easy, and players will need to navigate Island Boy around roots and boulders, help him leap over rivers, and slide under rocks, all in the nick of time. Crash into any obstacle or fall into a river and the game is over! Another central dynamic of the game is the Spirit based health system. As players run, they collect positive spirit flames that boost their spirit power, keeping their health up and offering a special bonus every time players fill up their spirit gauge.

That's not the whole story though, as negative spirit flames are peppered throughout the jungle as well. Pick up one too many and Island Boy will stop in his tracks! Special power-ups are also available, pick one up and Island Boy becomes invincible, if only for a short time. Spirit Runner also boasts responsive gesture based controls, an in-depth scoring system, as well as full integration with Facebook and Twitter to enable players to share their achievements with friends instantly. Meanwhile, competitive runners can race for ultimate Spirit Runner domination via interactive Game Center leaderboards. Spirit Runner is primed to race into the hearts of mobile arcade aficionados and anyone else looking for a distraction from anything that is not fun.
