

DCS Industries, LLC - Announces New Powder Coating Service

Written by Australian Business

PHOENIX, AZ, September 21, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- DCS Industries LLC, a local Phoenix construction company that specializes in wrought iron fencing, gates, and security doors, now offers powder coating service to residential and commercial property owners, as well as electrostatic painting for all wrought iron fencing. Powder coating provides a more durable finish to architectural elements of nearly any kind. Whether applied to gates, doors, patio furniture, wrought iron decorations - powder coated finishes are less likely to chip, crack, fade, or peel. It provides a long-lasting protective finish to items like gates or security doors that are often exposed to a multitude of elements and conditions.

As an alternative to other painting methods, powder coating is incredibly cost effective, providing a smooth and even final coat. It even saves on time - the process used makes it the most efficient method of application. It reduces the amount of paint used by decreasing the over spray and improving wrap-around. This technique may be used on many surfaces. The item is taken to the plant and the paint is baked on. Electrostatic painting for unmovable wrought iron fences and gates is a cost effective method for improving not only curb appeal, but the integrity of the fence as well.

The experienced team of professionals at DCS Industries, LLC will complete your powder coating job and meet the strictest requirements and codes for any project. All powder coating applications done by DCS Industries must pass our quality standards and are inspected to maintain the highest level of excellence on every job. Call for an estimate: 623-825-7700
