

DENVER, CO, September 24, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Preetham Kodiripaka is a successful businessman who knows the importance of giving back to his community. In addition to donating to schools in India, Preetham Kodiripaka also supports traditional Indian medicine and scriptures. Preetham Kodiripaka understands the value of education and wisdom in all areas of life.

The education system in India is lacking in many ways. Preetham Kodiripaka has been donating to a school for children who are disabled in Warangal and Andhra Pradesh, India for many years. Spandana is a school that supports children in India who are deaf or have other disabilities. There are a high percentage of children in India who do not complete primary school and as a result the illiteracy rate in India is very high. Preetham Kodiripaka understands the value of education and is an active supporter of education.

Ayurveda medicine is a system of traditional medicine that is native to the Indian subcontinent. While in India this is considered traditional medicine in many other parts of the world it is a form of alternative medicine. The oldest known texts that relate to the ayurveda system of medicine are the Sushruta Samhita and the Charaka Samhita. These classical Sanskrit encyclopedias of medicine are the building blocks for the foundation of ayurveda medicine.

Preetham Kodiripaka is also passionate about the Vedas. These are considered the earliest literary record of Indo-Aryan civilization and are the most sacred books of India. The Vedas are the original scriptures of Hindu teachings and contain all of the spiritual knowledge that encompasses all aspects of life. Vedic literature has stood the test of time and is considered the highest religious authority. "Veda" translates into wisdom, knowledge or vision, and it is considered by Hindus as the language of the gods in human speech. The laws that are spelled out in the Vedas regulate the social, legal, domestic and religious customs of the Hindus to the present day.

"I believe in the benefit of wisdom and giving back. Supporting education in the schools and through the Indian scriptures is something that I truly believe in. It is important to have values and beliefs and to do all that you can to encourage others in every part of their journey." With Preetham Kodiripaka's commitment to giving back to the community and to the study of traditional medicine and the sacred texts, he is sure to inspire others around the world.
