WALNUT, CA, September 26, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Nuliv Science, a scientifically proven ingredient supplier, today announced the release of their proprietary ingredient AstraGin, the ultimate nutrient absorption enhancer and best pre-workout supplement, that significantly promotes and improves the absorption of amino acids, glucose and vitamins at the cellular level which leads to quicker and more significant results.

AstraGin allows cells, tissues, and organs to receive a maximal level of nutrients to repair, maintain and rebuild on a regular basis. By increasing the absorption of many essential nutrients, AstraGin enables the body to operate at peak levels and amplify the production of nutrients entering the body. AstraGin accomplishes these enhancing effects by increasing the activities of specific essential chemicals in the human body. These essential chemicals regulate the amount of nutrients allowed to pass through the intestinal walls.

In recent studies, AstraGin has also proven to increase:

- Amino Acids absorption such as Arginine by 66.7% and Citrulline by 43%
- Vitamin absorption such as Folate by 50.4%
- Glucosamine absorption by 41.9%
- ATP production by 18%
- Supported insulin sensitivity by 38% and lower blood sugar level by 19%

"AstraGin helps us make sure our customers get 25-35% more of the valuable ingredient in each dose they take." said Ryan F. McCarthy, President and CEO of Ryno Power "This means more strength, better energy and a faster more productive recovery! AstraGin is the new "IT" ingredient and I assure you it will be seen more and more when people understand just what it can do."

AstraGin is a natural compound composed of fractionated Astragalus and Panax Notoginseng. Multiple pre-clinical studies affirm AstraGin's ability to improve the absorption of essential nutrients. It's a popular ingredient found in some of the best pre-workout supplements.
