burden of the day-to-day challenges with compassion and care. In 2005, Paula DuPre' Pesmen left her film career as a producer of the Harry Potter films to start There With Care. While on set, Paula met critically ill children and through them learned how isolated and overwhelmed their parents felt. In response, Paula founded There With Care to support each family by delivering daily services during their child's medical illness. Since inception, There With Care has supported more than 1,400 families in Colorado.
