

The Estate Shares 10 Ideas for an Autumn Wedding at Beautiful Atlanta Venues

Written by Australian Business

ATLANTA, GA, September 27, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Fall is a wonderful time for a wedding. Who could resist the cool, crisp weather and beautiful fall foliage? The Estate, a premier wedding venue in Atlanta offers 10 ideas to consider when planning a fall wedding. Let your imagination run wild and create an event that stuns and amazes your guests on your special day.

Choosing Your Venue Choosing your venue for a fall wedding can be difficult with all the sensational Atlanta event venues available. When you are shopping around for a location, make sure that you see the grounds during the fall season, either in person or in pictures, to fully understand the layout.

Your Theme During the fall season, you can incorporate shades of orange or even pumpkins. With the leaves changing to beautiful reds, yellows and oranges, there is a range of color palettes to choose from when deciding on the perfect accents to make your wedding really pop.

Your Dress For your wedding gown, you could choose something that fits the fall color palette. In addition, be sure to keep a cover-up handy if there might be a breeze in the air. Some brides may even find it fun to throw on a pair of cowboy boots and kick up their heels a bit.

Fall Decor The colors of autumn can lend an air of richness and opulence to your Atlanta wedding venue. The rich browns, golden yellows, crisp oranges and bronzes are great choices. Others include reds, burgundy, black and more. Incorporate pumpkins, fresh foliage, grasses, twigs, vegetables or fall flowers into your decorating plan to celebrate the season.

Your Wedding Party Make sure that the bridesmaids' dresses will keep them comfortable and if needed, maybe a wrap will do the trick. Play with color and be a bit daring when having the groomsmen's boutonnieres and the bridesmaids bouquets designed. Use pinecones, grasses, leaves and pick from the wide array of available fall flowers.

The Grand Entrance Make an unforgettable entrance inside a horse-drawn carriage or even a hay wagon. You can even have the wagon hang around afterward to give hayrides to the little ones attending your wedding.

The Food The fall weather will certainly help build your guests appetites. Fall is the time of harvest, and there are many menu options available. You can choose to throw a casual barbecue or a formal candlelit dinner. Consider fall favorites, such as pumpkin soup, roast meats, corn and more. Add some fun by including candied apples, apple pies and more.

Invitations Here is a great place to put your creative juices to work. You could have invitations created in the shape of leaves, pinecones, pumpkins or trees. Maybe you would like to add a sprig of foliage to your invitation or even have them printed on a packet of seeds. There are so many incredibly interesting ideas that you will come across to make your invitations unique and special.

Beverages Whether you choose to provide your guest with a non-alcoholic event or you choose to provide alcohol you can play around with your beverage choices to fit your fall theme. How about darker beers, crisp ciders, rich wines and yummy fall-themed mixed drinks if you choose to go that direction? For a non-alcohol wedding, there are some wonderful apple ciders, or you can create a fantastic fall punch.

Photography The backdrop of fall is a photographer's dream. The colors are warm and vibrant, and add to any picture. The majesty of big oaks in all their fall glory gently reaching their massive boughs down to enclose the happy couple is a moment to be remembered. Discuss with your photographer the best time of day to shoot your wedding pictures to get the most out of the lighting. Ask your photographer to visit your event venue in Atlanta so that they are prepared for your big day.

"Choosing to take advantage of the fall season is a smart choice for wedding couples. It is a wonderful way to introduce a natural, fresh feel to your event. Your venue can incorporate all that the fall season has to offer, creating a magnificent start to your new life as husband and wife," states Tony Conway, CEO and Founder of A Legendary Event.
