

T-Bones Steak and Seafood Celebrates Grand Re-Opening on Saturday, September 28

Written by Australian Business

DETROIT, MI, September 28, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- This Saturday, September 28 marks the official return of T-Bones. The St. Clair Shores restaurant will celebrate a grand reopening with live music by honky-tonk rockers The Orbitsuns and plenty of drink specials. Music starts at 9:30 pm, and ages 21 and over are welcome to attend this FREE event.

In the last several months, owners Tony and Tammy Miserendino have made extensive improvements to the restaurant. From hiring Chef Robert Kennedy (formerly of Mr. Paul's Steakhouse) to thoroughly remodeling the restaurant's interior, the new T-Bones is dedicated to serving up the best steak and seafood in addition to providing an exceptional dining experience.

Foodies and music lovers will enjoy the casual environment of T-Bones, upscale fare at affordable prices, plus great live music on the weekends.

"We've got fantastic prime rib, mouth-watering steaks, fresh seafood and amazing live music," said Tina Correll, T-Bones, Manager. "T-Bones will be a dining and entertainment destination for Metro Detroiters," she added.

T-Bones is now open Monday - Saturday from 11 am - 11 pm, and Sundays from noon - 10 pm for lunch and dinner. T-Bones is located at 23018 Greater Mack Avenue in St. Clair Shores, Michigan. For more information, please call the restaurant at 586-776-0062.

About The Orbitsuns: Known for an electrified live show that brings audiences to their feet, The Orbitsuns are a honky tonk hybrid of Johnny Cash, Hank Williams and Elvis with a twist of Detroit Rock City and sly humor.
