ST. LOUIS, MO, September 28, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- The Pujols Kitchen will attend the 2014 International Home + Housewares Show, hosted by the International Housewares Association. The show will be held March 15-18 at the McCormick Palace in Chicago, Illinois. This popular, international show is already sold out.

The Pujols Kitchen hopes to gain exposure at the show for its mission of helping families in need globally through the sales from cookware. At the show, The Pujols Kitchen will be displaying its entire 10-piece cookware and bakeware product line, featuring stainless-steel, traditional Dominican-style cooking pots called Calderos. The company also will feature its full line of silicone kitchen utensils and Pujols Kitchen accessories.

"The company is really excited to get the international exposure this show will provide," said Account Manager Nicole Muse. "People have been very receptive of our mission to give back to communities in need globally, and we're just really excited for the opportunity to share that mission with others."

The International Home + Housewares Show creates a global marketplace each year featuring 2,100 exhibitors from 34 countries and more than 20,000 buyers from more than 100 countries. The show includes cookware, tabletop, home decor, bath, cleaning, organization, cutlery, flatware, bakeware, appliances, healthcare products, pet products, energy conservation products and much more.

About The Pujols Kitchen The Pujols Kitchen is the brainchild of Deidre Pujols, wife of Albert Pujols, first baseman for the Anaheim Angels of Los Angeles. Inspired by the kitchens of her grandmothers, and delicious Dominican cuisine, Pujols started a company to help give back to families in need.

With its motto of "looks good, cooks good, does good," the mission of The Pujols Kitchen is to support and encourage less-fortunate families with tools and guidance to nourish their body, mind and spirit while improving quality of life.

Founded in January 2008, Pujols Kitchen aims to provide high quality cookware, the sales of which, benefits families living in poverty globally. Each piece of Pujols Kitchen Cookware has been ergonomically designed by Deidre Pujols to imitate the traditional cookware used in Latin American homes and is decorated with traditional Dominican Indian art.
