

Toronto Dentist Offers Educational Resources For Patients

Written by Australian Business

TORONTO, ON, September 29, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Leading Toronto Dentist, Dr. Andrew Syriopoulos, introduces new educational resources via Danforth Neighbourhood Dental Centre's patient friendly and easy to use website. Patients can now easily access dental information to better understand the importance of maintaining proper dental health through valuable dental education resources.

The new patient education library for Danforth Neighbourhood Dental Centre offers an array of informational dental articles and topics such as cosmetic procedures, dental problems, pain management and treatment options. Whether patients have questions about tooth pain or want more information on a cosmetic procedure, such as dental veneers in Toronto, they can easily access this information conveniently from the comfort of their home computer.

"It is important that all of our patients fully understand the importance of dental health and the options available to them. By including an educational library and educational videos, our patients can stay ahead of the latest treatments and dental health care even when our office is closed," said Dr. Andrew Syriopoulos, a Toronto, ON dentist.

In addition to the article-based dental library, patients can also view educational videos. The videos offer a visual look at different dental treatments and topics. When a question arises, patients can simply search through the dental library, or videos, of dental topics, including articles, fun facts, and more.

In addition to the new patient education resources, the practice's website offers an array of practice information including easy online appointment requesting and downloadable new patient forms. All of the information that patients need to make well-informed decisions about their dental health is readily available from their dentist in Toronto, ON.

Danforth Neighbourhood Dental Centre's patient friendly website includes valuable information about Dr. Andrew Syriopoulos, the location of his office and several other features. New patients can visit the website to download and print new patient paperwork to better prepare themselves for their first appointment. By filling out important paperwork before the initial appointment, patients can spend more quality time with Dr. Syriopoulos, and less time completing first visit forms.

Dr. Andrew Syriopoulos is well known in the Toronto area for providing quality dental care, service and helpful education for each patient. This Toronto dental veneers dentist provides the
