

StratITsphere Cloud Announces Expansion to Dallas

Written by Australian Business

HOUSTON, TX, September 30, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- StratITsphere Data Center Solutions today announced plans to expand its enterprise cloud offering, that is 100% focused on being resold through the channel, into a new Dallas data center facility in August of 2013. The expansion represents a significant step in the company's global cloud expansion strategy to accommodate growing demand for cloud computing within the Value Added Reseller (VAR) and Managed Service Provider (MSP) community.

StratITsphere has uniquely designed its cloud infrastructure for continuous deployment worldwide with unlimited scalability in capacity and connectivity. StratITsphere leverages a common enterprise class architecture strategy that ensures fault tolerant functionality and high performance consistency between any region, data center or customer site. When launched in Dallas, StratITsphere will deliver a feature-rich solution via a white label, self-service management portal. Partners can create, manage, deploy, invoice and microscopically report on their cloud environment within any of StratITsphere's various data centers all within a single web-based portal or via an Application Programming Interface (API) into their systems.

"As we pursue our expansion efforts as a result of the incredible opportunity to enable partners to expand their service portfolio without the need to expend capital, we are committed to providing the simplest and most robust cloud infrastructure service to our partners and their customers," said Kelby Dennard, Vice President of Global Cloud Development for StratITsphere. "StratITsphere's "Business Partners" now have the unique ability to present an enterprise cloud stack to their customers that was designed and built from the ground up to be "white labeled" as their infrastructure. The partner portal gives the partners unbelievable control of the environment, provisioning, reporting, invoicing and more while still be delivered through a "single pane of glass" for management"
