

"I'm Still Josh" Blogger Publishes Review for getSTDtested, an Online STD Testing Service

Written by Australian Business

CHICAGO, IL, October 01, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- HIV-positive blogger Josh Robbins recently published a review of <http://getSTDtested.com>, an online STD testing and treatment service. Robbins, the HIV-positive blogger of I'm Still Josh (ISJ), tested with getSTDtested.com and created this review to raise awareness for and stress the importance of STD and HIV testing.

"As an active HIV blogger and HIV-positive activist, I understand how important it is that we all continue to be tested regularly for STDs," Robbins says.

This thorough review review includes a step-by-step explanation of his testing experience, including everything from the ordering process, testing at a local lab and obtaining results.

"My mission was to find an online service provider that maintained the privacy desired, at an affordable value and with a strong network of local labs that provide accurate results. getSTDtested.com delivered all of those requirements," Robbins adds.

Based on his review, Robbins was fully satisfied with his experience. He awarded getSTDtested five out of a five stars for convenience, privacy and affordability. getSTDtested.com has also been lauded as an 2013 "ISJ Fave." The ISJ Faves list recognizes the best services, products, organization and influencers in the HIV and sexual health community.

"getSTDtested.com is thrilled to be featured on imstilljosh.com. As a sexual health and STD testing resource, we support Josh's mission to promote STD and HIV testing, as well as to de-stigmatize these issues through digital media," says Benjamin Brown, director of the consumer division at Pinpoint Health.

To further encourage STD testing and makes services more accessible, getSTDtested and ISJ partnered together to create a coupon code for customers. Customers can save $50 off the full eight-panel STD test by using code JOSH50 at checkout.

For fast, private STD testing, visit getSTDtested.com.

About getSTDtested.com getSTDtested.com, a leading online STD testing service, has been providing peace of mind through confidential, accurate and convenient STD testing since 2009. Through same-day STD testing, physician consultations and treatment options, getSTDtested.com is committed to providing the means to both gauge one's sexual health and maintain it. getSTDtested.com, a Pinpoint Health company, is committed to 100% confidentiality at all stages of the testing process.

About I'm Still Josh imstilljosh.com, written by Josh Robbins, has become a niche, but widely accepted, voice in the HIV/AIDS community since 2011 when he first released a shocking YouTube video he recorded live while learning he would be living with HIV. Featured on many health, news and HIV-related sites such as MTV Voices, Healthline, Associated Press, Poz.com, TheBody.com, PositiveLite.com and AIDS.gov, imstilljosh.com also boasts numerous guest blogs, an innovative partner notification service and the first Digital Encouragement Wall for those living with HIV.