

FirstMacro Launches FX Research and Trading Platform

Written by Australian Business

LONDON, ENGLAND, October 03, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- FirstMacro, a revolutionary, all in one FX research and trading platform (<http://www.firstmacro.com>), announced its official launch today. The product offers fundamental research, quantitative analytics, and a cutting edge, proprietary technical analysis tool.

Founder and Principal Joel Kruger, a currency strategist turned trader with over 10 years of experience says: "The product was born out of my own needs as a trader employing both fundamental and technical analysis on a daily basis. I found most platforms focused on the trading, with little to no attention to the quality of research. FirstMacro addresses this shortfall, placing the emphasis both on the trading, and the tools that help make you a better trader."

The platform includes features such as top-notch intraday updates, real-time technical commentary and levels for any market, and an innovative social media feed with up to the minute insights from influential market players. A live FX radio also streams around the clock, giving you breaking news in real time. All of these features are complemented by Joel's daily insights and trading strategy.

To view the product walkthrough please click here
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Jb5K5Vhtl7M>

About FirstMacro

FirstMacro is an all in one FX research and trading platform solution. FirstMacro was founded by Joel Kruger, a seasoned FX strategist and trader. To find out more about FirstMacro please visit our website <http://www.firstmacro.com>

DISCLAIMER: Trading in foreign exchange (forex) involves a significant level of risk and is not suitable for everyone. The high degree of leverage can work in your favor and against you. You should carefully consider whether trading is suitable for you in light of your personal circumstances, trading knowledge, and financial resources and any other factor that can influence your financial stability. Only true discretionary income should be used for trading in the Foreign Exchange and CFDs markets. Any opinion, market analysis or other information of any kind contained in this press release is subject to change at any time. Nothing in this press release should be construed as a solicitation to trade in the Foreign Exchange markets.