

CHINCOTEAGUE ISLAND, VA, October 03, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- It's time for apple picking and pumpkin carving. It's also a great time to cozy up with a hot drink and a good book. In the month of October, Pump Up Your Book features dozens of authors with books in a variety of genres. New adult and paranormal novels, thrillers, children's books, holiday titles, self-help, memoirs and more are available this month.

There has been so much excitement surrounding the new adult genre. Come find out what Kristin Kuhns Alexandre, Lilliana Anderson, and Jo Kessel have to say about their new adult novels. Herve Bebele chats about his erotic paranormal, "The Juice," and Michael Phillip Cash, and Heide AW Kaminski, Pam Ryan and Pump Up Your Book's founder, Dorothy Thompson, shares their paranormal stories as well. Arnine Cumsky Weiss with her chick-lit novel, "She Ain't Heavy," and Chuck Waldron continues his tour for his dystopian thriller, "Lion's Head Deception."

Thrillers in a variety of subgenres come to you from Mayra Calvani, Keith Domingue, Layton Green, Jess Money, and Joseph Spencer, and Mike Hartner talks about his historical romance novel, "I, Walter." Children's books come to you from Sal Barbera, Cinta Garcia de la Rosa, and Mark J. Grant, while Beverly Stowe McClure and Sharon and Raymond Thornton tour with tween novels.

Also on tour in October are: Bart Baker, Robert J. Elisberg, Dora Machado, Kaylin McFarren, Mike Phillips, Sunayna Prasad, and Joe Sergi.

October is host to a number of memoirs: G.J. Bachmann and the 9/11 memoir, "Tara's Cross," Linda Barrett's "Hopefully Ever After," William W. Buisch's "The Ark's Cargo," and Leif Gregersen's self-help memoir, "Through the Withering Storm." David Aaron Katz returns with his health and wellness book, "Superior Vocal Health," and Jimmy Slagle tours with the personal finance book, "How to Trade Stocks Using Options." Also on tour are Khanjan Meta and Deboray Serani.
