

SOMIS, CA, October 04, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- It's amazing how much a striking smile can catch our attention. Straight, bright smiles can be just as eye-catching as a new purse or gadget. Everyone wants a smile that can turn heads and sustain self-confidence. However, it's not only important for your dentist to take a vested interest in your dental health but for you to as well. Being up-to-date on new treatments and procedures and even top-of-the line dental products can mean the difference between a vibrant and a faded smile.

However, there is so much information on the Internet today that it can be difficult to find resources you can trust. Camarillo dentist, Dr. Charles Scholler, knows that finding accurate and valuable dental information can be daunting for anyone, which is why his website now offers his patients access to online educational resources.

"It's important that patients also take a personal interest in the health of their teeth and gums," says Dr. Scholler, dentist in Camarillo. "However, I know that with people's busy schedules, it can be difficult to find time to sift through the Internet to find information that is accurate and that you can trust. That's why we provide an online dental education library, so our patients don't have to worry whether the information they are receiving is reliable or not."

Whether you want to read about preventive measures you can take to preserve the health of your teeth, or you want to know which mouth guard will best protect your teen during a football game, Camarillo dentist, Dr. Scholler, is happy to offer all this information and more to patients who know it's important to be knowledgeable about their health.

"This online library covers an extensive array of topics, and can answer most questions our patients have without having to come into the office," says Dr. Scholler, Camarillo dentist. "But there are certainly circumstances that can't be solved through education alone, in which case patients should feel free to contact us to schedule an appointment at our Camarillo dental office."

If you would like further information on your dental health, feel free to check out Camarillo dentist, Dr. Scholler's website at <http://www.drscholler.com/> , or at (805) 386-3199.
