

Appleton Dentist Educates Patients For Increased Dental Health

Written by Australian Business

APPLETON, WI, October 04, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Dr. Perry Menos, an Appleton dentist, announces the recent addition of new educational resources for patients to explore via the practice's website. Patients now have the opportunity to explore the vast patient education library and view educational videos online.

The patient education library contains valuable information about dental concerns, diagnoses and treatments patients can actively explore. Dr. Menos, a dentist in Appleton, believes that informed patients are better prepared to make decisions about their health and well-being. Patients are encouraged to review the educational information to help aid them in their dental health care and to better understand any health concerns they may encounter.

"I want every patient to fully understand the importance of proper dental health and the options that are available to them. Our new educational resources allow our patients to stay ahead of the latest treatments. Whenever a question arises, an answer can be found even when our office is closed," said Dr. Perry Menos, a dentist in Appleton, WI.

With the addition of the patient education library, patients can view an array of informational dental articles and topics such as cosmetic procedures, dental problems, pain management and treatment options. Whether patients have questions about tooth pain or want more information on a cosmetic procedure, they can easily access this information conveniently from the comfort of their home computer, mobile smart phone or work computer.

Patients can also view educational videos to visually understand various dental techniques and procedures. The videos are available for patients to view educational videos explaining dental procedures and terminology. These videos can also be seen during consultation and before procedures to ensure patients have a proper understanding of the treatment they are receiving. From dental crowns to teeth whitening in Appleton, the educational videos are available to better inform patients about symptoms and smile-enhancing treatment options.

The new, patient friendly website for this Appleton, WI dentist also offers robust information and patient friendly tools that streamline dental care and reflect the vision and values of the practice. Patients can visit the site to access staff bios, office details, service descriptions, patient education, new patient forms and online appointment requesting-all from one online location.

The addition of valuable dental educational resources is further proof of Dr. Perry Menos' continual commitment to providing patients with the best dental care available. No matter what
