

WARRENTON, VA, October 04, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Since 1988, Drs. Yung & Jelinek has been working with patients to provide the best dental care for patients in the Warrenton, VA area. Further proof of their commitment can be seen through the introduction of sedation dentistry for patients who fear the dentist. With the use of sedation dentistry, Dr. Yung and Dr. Jelinek, dentists in Warrenton, VA, are able to establish a relaxed, easy and calm state through the use of sedatives for their patients.

The sedatives utilized by Drs. Yung and Jelinek can be administered orally, by inhalation or intravenously (IV). It enables patients who are afraid of receiving dental treatment to receive the dental care that they need, or want, while avoiding their dental phobia. Sedation dentistry is often used during procedures that require an extensive amount of time in the treatment chair, and is ideal for patients who experience dental phobia or have difficulty controlling their movements.

"With sedation dentistry I am able to provide my patients with the dental treatment they need while giving them a relaxing and anxiety-free experience because no one should avoid the dentist. Sedation dentistry allows patients the comfort they need to receive necessary dental treatment to maintain a healthy, glowing smile," said Dr. James Jelinek, Warrenton, VA dentist.

For patients who have a fear of dental treatments or have had a traumatic dental experience in the past, sedation dentistry is a great option for creating a calm, relaxed experience in the dental chair. Additionally, it is also helpful for patients who have difficulty getting numb, have a bad gag reflex and very sensitive teeth. Sedation may also be recommended for those who don't like needles and shots, as well as the noises, smells, and tastes associated with dental care. It can be used for procedures such as teeth whitening, dental implants and veneers.

There are different types and degrees of dental sedation available. The sedation dentistry technique recommended by Drs. Yung and Jelinek will depend upon the treatment being performed and the degree of the patient's dental anxiety. Dr. Susan Yung and Dr. James Jelinek, sedation dentists in Warrenton, can identify if a patient is a candidate for moderate sedation with oral sedatives or nitrous oxide, or deep sedation with intravenous medication.

Patients are encouraged to contact their dental office in Warrenton, VA today if they suffer from dental anxiety or phobia. Dr. Susan Yung and Dr. James Jelinek, and their team of experienced dental professionals, are able to use sedation dentistry to successfully treat dental anxiety while performing necessary treatment to maintain proper dental health.

Dentist In Warrenton, VA Helps Patients Relax At Each Dental Visit

Written by Australian Business

About Drs. Yung and Jelinek DDS: Drs. Yung and Jelinek are leading and experienced general dentists in Warrenton and perform oral surgery, implants, teeth whitening, and dental emergencies, among many other treatments and procedures. Dr. James Jelinek brings his unique experience of General Practice Residency in the U.S. Army with decades of education to the practice to provide quality dental care to his patients. Dr. Susan Yung also brings years of experience to the practice, beginning as a dental Hygienist for seven years before she graduated from Ohio State College of Dentistry with a doctor of Dental Surgery Degree. With years of experience Drs. Yung and Jelinek are able to practice at and above the standard care of dentistry.

Media Contact:Drs. Yung and Jelinek yjdds@cox.net 60 Rock Pointe LaneWarrenton, Virginia
20186(540) 349-0033 [http://www.drsyung
andjelinek.com](http://www.drsyungandjelinek.com)

As seen on: <http://www.epressdistribution.com/news.asp?id=2900>