

BARCELONA, SPAIN, October 05, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Peter Styles, Senior Vice-President, Mergers and Acquisitions, The Corliss Group, is scheduled to attend Hedge Funds World Asia Conference from September 3 to 5, 2013 at the Harbour Hotel, Hong Kong. The conference provides great opportunities for participants to interact with industry colleagues and develop new networks among potential clients to whom they can advance their corporate profile during the entire promotional event.

THE CORLISS GROUP looks forward to having the opportunity to contribute to the campaign table its special expertise and experience in investment strategies, whether in traditional asset management or in alternative investments. Joining the event will significantly improve the firm's reach in its effort to provide financial management advice in a wide array of investments, particularly in the main topic of the conference, which is such as Hedge Funds, as well as other vehicles, for instance, funds-of-funds, private equity and real estate.

With its vast and long experience in many forms of investment markets, THE CORLISS GROUP has built a stable platform of offerings to provide perceptive investors' increasing needs in an increasingly multifarious investment environment.

THE CORLISS GROUP has built its operations on the underlying foundation of answering the growing need for alternative investments among high net-value and smaller institutional investors in today's present vibrant markets. In sourcing hedge funds, equities, private equity, fund-of-funds and real estate ventures, the Group's knowledgeable managers develop offerings that are well fitted to a vast range of qualified investors.

As an independent investment advisory company with several qualified affiliates to support it, THE CORLISS GROUP has a firm foothold on an investment platform that can efficiently develop strategies that through years have proven successful.

THE CORLISS GROUP's involvement in many successful investment deals designed for institutions and qualified private client-investors is far-reaching. The firm places these offerings through U.S. brokerage firms, private banks, financial planning firms, registered investment advisors and family offices.

At the root of THE CORLISS GROUP's philosophy is that of efficiently selecting qualified Investment Managers to handle clients' accounts. The firm's excellent capability to identify asset management ability in the field of investments has continually confirmed the company's qualification to function well in this market field. Candidate managers are primarily sourced out through a network of strategic associates, long-standing relationships and referrals from managers, trading desks, service providers and other prospective sources.

The company's due-diligence process is systematic and precise. Due diligence is a vital process that is comparable to a jigsaw puzzle where qualitative and quantitative data are assembled and analyzed. Variables such as manager character, reliability, personal dedication and possible conflicts of interest are carefully and impartially evaluated.

THE CORLISS GROUP's extensive foray into the complex investment world has borne many fruits due to its deep adherence to the high value of education. The company believes that education is a keystone of its investment experience and is committed to work with investors and advisors who have an understanding of the potential benefits and risks of alternative investments and are, therefore, primed to make informed investment decisions.

Joining the Hedge Funds World Asia conference will bring a great impetus to the company, especially toward enhancing its capability to offer unique and efficient service in an fast evolving, dynamic global market.
