

LOUISVILLE, KY, October 05, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- LSS Life Safety Services (LSS), a widely respected leader in passive fire protection inspection and repair, has welcomed Chad Smith as its new Firestop Manager. Chad comes to LSS with six years of firestopping experience, including firestopping estimates, sales, and management. Chad also has firsthand experience in installing firestop assemblies and systems.

Previously Chad worked for a Firestopping specialty contractor based in North Carolina. He held the position of Lead Estimator for New Commercial Construction, and was responsible for both North and South Carolina. Chad handled bidding and the securing of work, and at times served as the project manager for major contracts. He also worked closely with clients in order to develop lasting relationships, ensuring the use of his company for any future firestopping needs of their clients.

In talking about his new position at LSS, Chad stated, "I joined the LSS team because I wanted to jump in on the ground floor with a quickly growing firestopping division in a company recognized as an industry leader. This is a place where I could leave my fingerprint by helping to develop a strong nationally recognized Life Safety Team. I'm very excited to help contribute to the growth of this section of LSS Life Safety Services ".

For more information about LSS Life Safety Services, please contact Hannah Fisher, hfisher@lifesafetyservices.com or visit <http://www.LifeSafetyServices.com>.

About LSS Life Safety Services :

LSS Life Safety Services specializes in the inspection and repair of fire and smoke dampers, fire doors, firestopping and commissioning services in commercial facilities. Considered a leader in the Fire Safety Industry, LSS Life Safety Services' has made a commitment to commercial Facilities to provide specialized passive fire protection inspections of the highest quality to ensure compliance with NFPA's critical Life Safety Code