NEW YORK, NY, October 12, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Travel writer and CEO of World Guide Publishing, T.R. "Tina" Threston is well known for her charity work, and, she has kicked off yet another fundraising campaign. This time for St. Hubert's Animal Welfare Center with shelters in Madison, NJ and North Branch, NJ.

According to Threston, a New Jersey native, "This is something that is very close to my heart since I adopted my own cat from St. Hubert's, and, I know it's a charity that is often overlooked. They do wonderful work at St. Hubert's so if I can help bring attention and help raise much needed funds, I am more than happy to do it."

St. Hubert's offers pet adoption and animal rescue, animal assisted therapy, humane education, dog training, and pet loss support. The charity operates mainly on a volunteer basis, and, funding comes from private individuals, foundations, and, grantors.
