

WEST PALM BEACH, FL, October 12, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Cre8ive Connexions founder and President, Anjanee Mahabir, knows first-hand the powerful connections that are made at effective networking events. She has witnessed and developed many throughout her 15 years of success in relationship management, marketing and event planning. With a solid vision and valuable experience to her credit, Anjanee started Cre8ive Connexions. Her mission for her company was to create events that would facilitate industry related connections, conducive to establishing a business referral network and community support system. She knows she has just the right ingredients...the gift of creating, the passion for connecting and the heart for supporting. Out of this, Cre8ive Connexions was born!

"There are no shortage of business networking events out there," said Ms. Mahabir. "But many times business professionals leave a networking function feeling underwhelmed and regretting their decision to attend. By creating industry specific events and gathering key players in just the right venue, I know my attendees will have no regrets. Adding the right mix of all the critical elements is my recipe for success."

Ms. Mahabir goes a step further with her event planning and includes a "giving back" approach to each one. She puts the spotlight on a specific local non-profit and offers them access to influential for-profit businesses and individuals while creating awareness for their cause. It is also important to her to bring significant exposure and value to her partnering sponsors and venue hosts. Everyone in the Cre8ive Connexions equation benefits.

The charitable aspect of the event is particularly important to Ms. Mahabir. "When I started Cre8ive Connexions, I knew that clients would respond not only to clear focus and detailed planning, but also to the non-profit component," she said. "There is such a desire to do more good, over all, in the business community. I'm proud that Cre8ive Connexions can be instrumental in serving to do good for many business communities overall."
