

RICHMOND, SURREY, ENGLAND, October 14, 2013 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Kelly Ducourty, Vice President of Global Accounts UK&I, Benelux and MEMA for Hewlett-Packard, has been named a Worldwide Branding Professional of the Year in Global Accounts Management. While inclusion in Worldwide Branding is an honor, only a small selection of members in each discipline are chosen for this distinction. These special honorees are distinguished based on their professional accomplishments, academic achievements, leadership abilities, years of service, and the credentials they have provided in association with their Worldwide Branding membership.

Ms. Ducourty has 15 years of professional experience, having recently become a vice president of global accounts for HP. Through her work, she drives tangible savings for her customers. In the course of her duties, she is responsible for leading some of the largest global accounts for HP Corporation. She also develops new business opportunities by speaking with clients. She carefully safeguards the interests of the company's operations in UK, Ireland, the Middle East, and Africa.

Looking back on her 15 years of experience, Ms. Ducourty attributes her success to her passion, attitude, energy, and dedication to continuously learning. She became involved in her profession because she studied international marketing and management and enjoys working on the enterprise side. She went into IT with a four-year degree and started in a French International company. She was recruited by HP for her IT expertise and the fact that she speaks fluent French. Her career progressed naturally from there. Ms. Ducourty received a Bachelor of Arts in international marketing, as well as French and Spanish, from Bournemouth University in 1998. She is a member of Intellect, the National Outsourcing Association. In years to come, she seeks to become a senior vice president and lead sales on a global basis.
