IRVINE, CA, May 12, 2014 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Learn To Play Toys, an online toy store based in Irvine, California, announces the launch of LearnToPlayToys.com, a website devoted to providing educational toys and learning games for children from babies to pre-teens and beyond. Learn To Play Toys website features an outstanding selection of educational play products that nurture and enhance important developmental skills in children. Learn To Play Toys values the importance of play in a child's life and recognizes the significance of healthy and quality play activities that present children with numerous physical and intellectual benefits shaping their personalities for the life to come.

The main goal and objective for the new website is to provide children with quality toys and educational products that teach, engage and entertain. Learn To Play Toys believes "play" is a main and vital task in a child's life. Through play, children learn to solve problems; they begin to establish social skills, develop cognitive competency, and advance physical abilities. The online toy store presents a selection of Learning Toys and Educational Games that help to enhance and facilitate this learning and development in children.

Learn To Play Toys offers high quality play products that are safe, well-crafted and meet the strict standards of rich play value. Instead of selling flashy plastic toys that run on batteries, Learn To Play Toys provides their customers a thoughtful selection of constructive play products in categories like Creative Play, Science Toys and Developmental Toys that delight and inspire children and give them the opportunity to practice new skills and figure things out on their own. The online toy store has a selection of play products that goes beyond learning toys and educational games. Learn To Play Toys is a resource for online shoppers by offering a beautiful array of Baby Toys, Natural and Eco Friendly Toys, Musical Instruments for Kids and Outdoor Toys and Games.

"Today, toy stores are filled with colorful and flashy plastic toys designed to absorb the interest and attention of both parents and children. The question that most parents ask when they walk into a toy store is what could be the best kind of toys for my child?" says Sanam Shirzad, the co-founder and co-President of LearnToPlayToys.com. "The best toys are those that inspire the child's imagination, allow children to be challenged and provide them the opportunity to be creative. Your child has to be the focus of the play, not the toy itself, so look for toys that do not limit the child's direct involvement during the play process." Sanam Shirzad is also the main contributor to Learn To Play Toys Blog Page.
