HONG KONG, June 04, 2014 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Flair Personal Leadership Consulting Managing Director Lydia Wan has been recognized for showing dedication, leadership and excellence in leadership coaching.

After nearly a decade of success as a professional trainer and coach, Ms. Wan is uniquely qualified to lead Flair Personal Leadership Consulting as managing director. Throughout her past year in the position, Ms. Wan's expertise and executive and professional presence have led her to continued success. She also has significant international experience, and has traveled to Spain, Singapore, Canada, Japan, Thailand, China, Australia, Sydney, and the United States, to areas including New York, San Francisco and Washington, D.C. Flair Personal Leadership Consulting provides business consulting and management services to its clients. As managing director, Ms. Wan uses a very unique holistic approach to training that incorporates both professional image and emotional intelligence. She first meets with clients to understand their needs and then trains them in the areas of emotional intelligence leadership and positive psychology. Ms. Wan also develops training workshops on topics such as business advocating, dining etiquette, professional image and communication.

Ms. Wan has achieved success through her passion for helping others develop individual strengths and intelligence. She feels that training (and coaching) is important not just for executives, but for all individuals. She had previously witnessed senior-level executives who were very knowledgeable in their selected fields, but were lacking good personal leadership skills. She felt that she would be an excellent resource through which they could learn.

Prior to joining Flair Personal Leadership Consulting, Ms. Wan earned a master's degree in coaching, training and development at Middlesex University London in 2013. In recognition of her achievements, she was recently inducted into Worldwide Branding. Looking forward, Ms. Wan intends to promote her unique inside-out holistic approach of professional presence coaching program in Asia. She wishes to help more individuals to unleash their unique inner and outer intelligence and to present their best leadership presence to be an authentic leader. She wishes to educate people in Asia and create an appropriate mindset for success.
