

MONTREAL, QC, August 21, 2014 /24-7PressRelease/ -- This takes a considerable amount of your time, which could be spent actually improving your SharePoint environment's health.

This stops today, with Sharegate.

Yes, Sharegate. These guys have always been bugged by the complexity people put themselves under to achieve rather straightforward goals. Why does everything have to be so arduous? They've got years of experience in making things as simple as they can get, without compromising results nor design! The Montreal-based company has already perfected the no brainer SharePoint migration, but they couldn't stop there.

Introducing Pre-Migration Check and Permission Management, two incredibly empowering features.

The first one allows you to conduct a complete checkup before migrating anything. This means no more horrible surprises while running your SharePoint migration! With Pre-Migration Check you get an overview of the potential errors outright, and learn how to fix them before even starting the real deal. From now on, migration time = relaxation time as there isn't a risk of failure left.

Second but not least, Permission Management. This feature gives SharePoint admins an oh so simple way of maintaining SharePoint security. Controlling who accesses what on your SharePoint environment is one of the most crucial elements for enforcing security. You wouldn't want your own internal wikileaks scandal, would you? This is where Permission Management steps in! Fully administer permissions for security matters, but also easily add new members to groups by giving them the right accesses in no time.
