

HOLLYWOOD, FL, August 21, 2014 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Until recently, people who wanted to travel would have to rely on word of mouth information as well as numerous different travel agencies, websites and apps to find the information they required - that is, until VadoVia made its appearance into the world of technology.

With VadoVia, tourists and business people will be able to take their travel planning to new heights because visitors to the site and users of the app will not only have the ability to plan their own trips quickly and easily; they will also be able to access hints and tips from other people who have already visited a destination and saved their travel information.

Thanks to provision being made to save trips that a person has been on, this makes planning your own travel itinerary an absolute pleasure. As a result, it will save you from having to visit numerous other travel-related websites to find the information you need on your chosen destination. With more and more people visiting the site and using the app, it means that there will always be a constant supply of recently-updated information available.

Travelers will no longer need to carry a folder of notes listing information such as where their vehicle is parked, where to find a taxi or other public transport service, locations of nearby ATM's, nearby points of interest, hospitals and other essential services, as this tour planner will be able to provide all of that information with the touch of a few buttons.

Eager travelers who would like to find out more about VadoVia and how it works can go here: <http://www.vadovia.com>

About the Company:VadoVia was created with tourists and travelers in mind. The website provides users with step by step video guides on how to plan a tour as well as take a tour that has already been saved by another traveler. Easy to understand tutorial screens will ensure that travel planning is made easier than ever.