

Eclipse Shutters Offers Design Tips for White Plantation Shutters This Summer

Written by Australian Business

ATLANTA, GA, August 21, 2014 /24-7PressRelease/ -- White is an excellent base color that goes well with almost any decor choice. Eclipse Shutters, a leading plantation shutter manufacturer, especially recommends it for your interior shutters during the hot summer months ahead.

If you want to achieve a clean look, match the trim to the shutters. This has the added benefit of increasing the sense of space in any room. Don't be afraid to use full-height shutters with partial-height shutters in one room. This interplay of height will add an element of depth and interest. Let the color be the unifying element. If you want to infuse subtle drama, white plantation shutters on bay windows will help you accomplish this goal.

For 22 years, Eclipse Shutters has delivered on their promise of high-quality and expertly designed interior shutters for the American family home. Their products integrate beautifully with traditional and modern house designs and last for many years without losing their original charm and character.

"Many homeowners are not aware of how important window treatments are in a room design," says Shannon Hodges, Business Unit Manager for Eclipse Shutters. "When they see what our products can do for their entire house or even for just one room, they are delighted and excited about the possibilities. We are committed to offering our clients only the best products for their homes, products that not only complete and complement their home decor but also fit into their lifestyle seamlessly."

Eclipse Shutters offer a 25-year warranty on all its interior shutters. Their products are expertly crafted and professionally installed to give homeowners many years of use and enjoyment. To learn more about the company's products, go to <http://www.eclipseshutters.com> .
