

KANSAS CITY, MO, August 22, 2014 /24-7PressRelease/ -- United Real Estate, a fast-growing urban-centric real estate and franchise operation company, announces the one year anniversary of the opening of its' Washington, D.C. location. The office has seen outstanding growth in its' first year, attracting over 115 agents since opening the cafe style office in Reston, Virginia.

Agents from all of the traditional franchises, as well as agents from large independent companies have joined United Real Estate - Washington, D.C. after seeing the company's unique model and innovative offering.

"United Real Estate is achieving unprecedented growth; our full-service brokerage model in combination with our outstanding agents have led us to accomplish a great deal in a very short amount of time," said Peter Giese, President, United Real Estate. "We have no doubt this office will continue its' rapid pace of success and allow us to rapidly expand our presence into other areas of the greater Washington D.C. market."

United Real Estate is dedicated to developing top-performing agents with its full-service 100-percent commission business model. The "Freedom Model" includes a competitive solution that provides the latest training, marketing, technology and access to a national referral network to real estate and owners of real estate companies through a franchise offering. Backed by a company with an 88-year history of successfully servicing both agents and consumers, United stands alone in the residential real estate industry with its' true franchise solution.

"The United Real Estate model provides agent support unlike anyone else in the industry," said Tony Arko, United Real Estate - Washington, D.C. Broker. "With the ability to rapidly increase their earnings, agents find our model very enticing. It allows agents to grow their own businesses but still receive the support of a national brokerage."
