

XBOSoft's New Website Goes Online

Written by Australian Business

SAN FRANCISCO, CA, August 23, 2014 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Industry leading software testing and quality control firm, XBOSoft, said today that they have launched a new, seamless and on-brand version of their company website. XBOSoft is a San Francisco-based company specializing in software test consulting and mobile application testing, usability testing services, web application testing as well as other function testing services.

"We are very pleased with the final version of our new site," commented XBOSoft CEO, Phillip Lew. "The new website, XBOSoft.com, clearly shows our understanding of our clients' problems and the issues facing them."

Clients and visitors to the new XBOSoft website will find better integration with backend systems that enable faster client responses and easier and more clear navigation. Other enhancements include a stronger call to actions, easier access to free resources such as white papers and the new Pricing Inquiry form. This form helps prospective clients submit a pricing request based on their responses to a short list of questions about the specific type of software testing help they require.

"The new site is mobile responsive, context driven and allows for a much more rewarding user experience," added Lew. Now the new XBOSoft website will show the most appropriate auxiliary content depending on where a user is on the site.

About XBOSoft: XBOSoft is a software testing firm located in San Francisco, CA. They were founded in 2006 and since then have established offices in has offices in S.F, Amsterdam and Oslo. XBOSoft raises the quality of their clients' software throughout the entire quality lifecycle. From quality assurance assessments and advice on best practices, to implementing process improvements followed by continuous test execution, XBOSoft speeds products to market at the highest possible quality.

For more information about XBOSoft visit their website or call 408-980-7120.

Philip Lew , CEO

XBOSoft640 Rocca Ave.South San Francisco, CA 94080

XBOSoft's New Website Goes Online

Written by Australian Business

408-980-7120

services@xbosoft.com www.XBOSoft.com