

NEW YORK, NY, August 30, 2014 /24-7PressRelease/ -- TheCollecte.com showcases designers offering high-quality products ranging from fashion, art, photography and home decor.

Fashion Institute of Technology (FIT) alumna, Stephanie Erbilgin cofounded TheCollecte.com in order for designers and artists from all fields to showcase their talents in today's digital market. The website is a lifestyle boutique offering only the most unique and interesting clothing, jewelry, accessories, art, and home decor.

"After college, I had developed my own knitwear brand and during the process, I learned what it took to become a successful young designer. So I wanted to take my knowledge and expertise and create a company that helps emerging designers build their brands in the public eye, while also making it easy for consumers to find their fabulous products," said Stephanie, founder and president. "Ultimately, TheCollecte.com's mission is to provide an online global platform for the best new designers and artisans and to present a better choice to fashion-forward consumers looking to discover exclusive, well-designed pieces."

Some designers include: San Francisco-based KONSTANTINA TZOVOLOU Footwear New Orleans-based DeOndra Jeree Handbags Hong Kong-based LAYKH Handbags England-Based Couture Hats by Beth Hirst Canada-based Mood Design Studio Home Decor New York-based East Camp Home Pillows And so much more!

About TheCollecte.com

Launched by FIT graduates Stephanie Erbilgin and Maria DeLisi-Minichiello in 2012, TheCollecte.com is a global online destination connecting shoppers with today's newest fashion, art, and home decor brands. Collectors can stay apprised of company news with the newest addition to the team, Miss Collecte. Miss Collecte manages the company blog as well as provides fashion and style advice. For a complete list of designers, brands, and products, please visit TheCollecte.com. Like us on Facebook.com, view our latest pins on Pinterest.com, and even join the conversation on Twitter.com.