

SAN JOSE, CA, November 19, 2014 /24-7PressRelease/ -- Snuvik Technologies takes great pride in announcing their attendance at the Gartner Symposium/ITxpo 2014 held in Goa, India, on October 14 through 17, 2014. This symposium was a meeting of some of the biggest up and coming businesses in the technology industry.

The goal of the Gartner Symposium/ITxpo is to provide training and education to CIOs and other senior IT executives so they can continue serving in leadership roles in the digital marketing industry. The top executives from Snuvik Technologies took advantage of this amazing opportunity to move forward in their industry so they can provide their clients with the incredible service they deserve. They attended seminars and perused the exhibits located throughout the venue. This opened the door to many conversations to help them learn how to move their business forward.

The Gartner Symposium/ITxpo 2014 put together a number of options to allow every attendee to choose the right path to fulfill their objectives. For instance, CIOs utilized the CIO program, which consisted of a variety of sessions, workshops, to the points and CIO keynotes, giving those who hold these positions insight into the value of innovation and staying on top of the changing industry trends.

In addition to the CIO program, Snuvik Technologies professionals could select from several tracks so they could obtain the information they needed to best serve their positions. These tracks included applications, business intelligence and information management, infrastructure and operations, and strategic initiatives. They were also able to gain industry-specific perspectives in the areas of banking, insurance, manufacturing and others.

Snuvik Technologies enjoyed many advantages from their attendance at this event. Not only did they gain valuable training and education from some of the top professionals in the field, but they also were able to network with others in the industry to share ideas and provide feedback useful in tailoring their business to meet their clients' needs. They also met with many exhibitors to help them strike partnerships they can now use to give their clients the services they require to manage their own businesses. In addition to making these connections, they listened to various success stories from other businesses that have already implemented these solutions to better serve their customers.

Anyone who would like more information on the value of attending the Gartner Symposium/ITxpo 2014 can find out more by visiting the Snuvik Technologies website or by calling 1-855-SNUVIK0.

About Snuvik Technologies As a full-service IT services and consulting company, Snuvik Technologies offers a number of IT-related services to their clients. Their talented team of professionals takes great pride in providing customized solutions to best meet the needs of their clients. These professionals have the experience necessary to assist their clients in solving their IT-related problems. Because the digital world is changing at a rapid pace, their team strives to help their clients stay on top of the current trends for the most effective use of technology.