

Fifth SpaceX Mission Lets the CATS Out on the International Space Station

Written by Business News

The Cloud-Aerosol Transport System, and new research including flatworms, wearable technology, an external radiation monitor and tools to use the station as a microbial observatory will head to the orbiting outpost on the fifth SpaceX mission.