

With its eco-friendly and high-performing auto parts, it is contributing to saving cost with its durability, and continues to work on using advanced technology through the development of new materials.