

City Business Solutions Investigate Whether Product Placement is Out of Control

Written by Business News

Product placement has long been a popular marketing technique for many big brands; however despite the popularity many are beginning to question the effectiveness of such an approach.