

Written by Business News

---

NY psychiatrists instruct psychotherapists and healthcare professionals - two week-long training sessions that include use of herbs, nutrients, breath work, and movement practices to relieve stress, as well as psychological and physical disorders