

Layne Resource Group has provided anti-fatigue mats to businesses all over the United States. With the assistance of Google's program, the company sets its sight on expanding its presence on the web, as well as on the international market.