

Airfoil Public Relations Sees Bright Horizon in Move to Sunnyvale

Written by Australian Business

(PRLEAP.COM) Sunnyvale, Calif. – Apr. 23, 2012 – Airfoil Public Relations, an independent public relations agency specializing in public relations and marketing communications for technology companies, has finalized a five-year lease for 5,100 sq. feet at 150 Mathilda Place in downtown Sunnyvale, Calif. to house its Silicon Valley operations.

"We listened to employee and client feedback to inform our search and the property in Sunnyvale was the best fit," commented Airfoil co-CEO, Janet Tyler. "Airfoil's new offices in Sunnyvale are within walking distance of the Caltrain station and offer staff and clients other attractive perks, including a diverse selection of accessible restaurants and retail shops."

Airfoil has steadily grown its team and operations in Silicon Valley since signing its first lease in 2005, when the company established an office in Redwood Shores. Since that time, the agency has steadily grown its business through contracts with some of the Valley's most well-known and respected technology brands, subsequently relocating to larger facilities in Redwood City and Mountain View. Airfoil relocated staff to its new Sunnyvale location in April.

"We hope to be in the Sunnyvale location for the foreseeable future," added Tyler. "Our company is expanding internationally over the next couple of years and having a stable presence here in the Bay Area that can scale locally, as we grow globally, is a key asset to our client's programs and Airfoil's business plans."

About Airfoil Public Relations, Inc. Airfoil, with offices in Southfield, Mich., and Sunnyvale, Calif., is an independent firm specializing in marketing communications and public relations for both emerging and leading technology companies. Airfoil's teams drive technology communications for a growing client roster across consumer, enterprise, health care, cleantech and industrial segments. The agency provides services to inform and accelerate clients' marketing communications, digital and social media, and brand strategy programs. Airfoil has been named Technology Agency of the Year by the Holmes Report and recognized as a top firm in numerous industry rankings. For more information about Airfoil Public Relations, please visit <http://www.airfoilpr.com>