

BELLEVUE, Wash., Sept. 30, 2013 /PRNewswire-iReach/ -- Applied Discovery today announces that after a meticulous audit of its Relativity Amplified offering, the company has earned kCura's prestigious "Best in Service" designation.

"We work very hard for our clients, week-in and week-out. Year-in, year-out," said Applied Discovery president, Kelli Clark. "This honor is a reflection of our commitment to client satisfaction and quality work product. Our project management, IT, development and operational teams are all keenly focused on the client's experience with Relativity Amplified. This honor demonstrates that this focus is paying off."

Applied Discovery is a kCura premium hosting partner for Relativity, with eight Relativity Certified Administrators in their organization. The Best in Service designation required Applied Discovery to pass a rigorous review on three key areas of client engagement on technical, customer service, and product expertise for Relativity.

Applied Discovery's own internal training and support program fosters an environment that enables its employees to comprehensively support their client's Relativity deployment fully and commensurate with a Best in Service recognition.
