

Phoenix Real Estate Community Seeks Local Bloggers

Written by Australian Business

Richard Simon and Scott Roberts

(PRLEAP.COM)

Phoenix, Arizona (October 24, 2013) – Phoenix based Realty AZ Central has launched a new online community portal and is enlisting the help of local bloggers who want to gain more publicity as contributors to the new site.

The company is seeking people who are active in the community and are willing to blog about local news, events, and community updates. Co-Founder Richard Simon says, "It's an ideal opportunity for the stay-at-home mom who works from home and wants to get that additional exposure as a writer within her community."

Who should apply?

Community bloggers Stay-at-home moms Aspiring bloggers Small business owners The only requirements are to submit a writing sample and be willing to make a commitment to write a (fresh) article at least once per month for a six month period. Interested parties are asked to submit writing samples to mark@realtyazcentral.com . Links to published works are preferred with submissions and the company requests that no phone inquiries are made for submissions of follow up due to the volume of responses that these types of offers typically elicit. Selected parties will be contacted by a company representative.

About Realty AZ Central Realty AZ Central is a real estate marketplace founded by real estate & mortgage industry veterans to help guide Phoenix area homebuyers and sellers through their real estate transactions. The Realty AZ Central website provides a host of resources including home seller tips, mortgage lender referrals, and a local real estate agent network. For more information, visit their website at: www.realtyazcentral.com