Elster American Meter has been leading the natural gas control and measurement industry for over 160 years. With innovation at the forefront of design, Elster American Meter continues to improve the accuracy and the service life of gas meters. High-quality gas meters by Elster American Meter are suitable replacements for existing gas meters, and can be used as an addition to measure and regulate split gas lines.

HVAC Brain has expanded their online product offering to further support HVAC professionals who work with natural gas. Elster American Meter is the first gas meter product line that will be carried by HVAC Brain. Initially, HVAC Brain will be carrying rotary and diaphragm gas meters manufactured by Elster American Meter, and plans to expand their online gas meter offering in the future. Existing natural gas-related products offered by HVAC Brain include handheld gas detectors and pressure gauges.
