

Ready Virtual gives the first of 5 mini web broadcasts outlining their new legal answering services for attorneys and law firms.

(PRLEAP.COM) December 29, 2013 - Ready Virtual LLC is rolling out phone answering services geared specifically towards attorneys and law firms. On Friday December 27, 2013 they broadcast the first of 5 Google+ Hangouts On Air giving busy attorneys an overview of their various services.

"We do a lot more than answer phones," says co-founder Kathryn Christiansen (www.linkedin.com/in/kathryncristiansen). "Some attorneys may not understand what we can do for them, but that is why we are doing these short little web broadcasts, to educate them on what is possible."

Christiansen explains that the value of answering phones alone is often overlooked, "but when you begin to consider the image you are portraying of your law practice to your potential clients, the last thing an attorney should be doing is answering their own phone. Nor should the attorney be giving out a mobile phone number."

Ready Virtual will be offering legal answering services that include but are not limited to:

Domestic receptionists with non-regional diction. Unlimited call minutes for basic transfers and phone answering (an industry first). Call screening to maximize productivity and minimize distractions. Advanced message taking services. Calendar management. Outbound calls to remind clients of upcoming appointments. Ready Virtual will hold 4 more mini web broadcasts next week giving more details on the various high value services and low price points.

"We are very good at what we do," Christian concludes. "Answering phones, screening calls, and taking messages like a pro is a fine art to us. We do what we do best so attorneys can do what they do best."

While Ready Virtual offers these services to law practices nation wide, they are beginning the rollout of these legal answering services in Salt Lake City, Utah; home of their corporate headquarters.
