

(PRLEAP.COM) Catskill, NY – In 2013 designers saw many new ways to make the most of accent lighting to enhance the appearance and mood of any room. The knowledgeable team of lighting experts and designers at Lighting Pros 360 know all of the latest lighting trends that were popular in 2013 and will continue to be improved upon in the year to come.

Current styles in lighting accents and fixtures are more varied and inventive than ever. New looks pick up on design trends inspired by jewelry, with crystal and resin pieces set in metallic finishes that resemble a favorite antique gold and amber bracelet. Brass, bronze and copper finishes are equally warm and complement a variety of styles. The spare, clean lines of the most contemporary looks are expressed in chandeliers and fixtures that feature geometric angles and advanced metallic finishes like nickel, chrome or stainless steel.

The foundation of any lighting plan is general or ambient lighting provided by ceiling fixtures, chandeliers, recessed lights, or even wall sconces. Whether the clients are going for a glamorous, hip or homespun style, they will find lighting choices that blend with all of these and more at Lighting Pros 360. A balanced mix of lighting sources in styles that reflect personal taste will create a comforting glow and add elegance to any room.

In 2013 style of lighting fixtures emphasized accents that blend with the overall look of the furnishings. A crystal chandelier-or, a pair or series of three in a large enough space-will establish the most traditional feel. In the year to come, use fixtures as an opportunity to introduce a complementary design element, such as an important color theme-a more feasible option, now, as many manufacturers are producing chandeliers and other fixtures in vibrant colors.
