Drs. Emmanuel Asare, Theodore Diktaban and Gordan Andan are pleased to announce the release of their latest website, located at gynecomastianewyork.net. The website is a comprehensive resource for men who suffer from enlarged breasts, a condition known as gynecomastia. The surgeons hope that this new website will further position them as leaders in the field of gynecomastia treatment, and make their practice more accessible to patients throughout New York City and Long Island who are seeking gynecomastia treatment.

The new website serves as a one-stop source for information about male breast reduction, including its causes, risk factors, available treatments and pricing information. While many men are under the impression that enlarged male breasts can be corrected with exercise, the truth is that surgical intervention is often needed. Drs. Asare, Andan and Diktaban are pleased to have launched this new website to educate patients on all of their options.

Helpful sections of the website include a frequently asked questions section and a before and after photo gallery where men can see the results that the experienced surgeons at Advanced Cosmetic Surgery of New York are able to achieve. Website visitors can also read about pricing information, including whether or not insurance will cover male breast reduction surgery.

Gynecomastianewyork.net's robust blog also features a wealth of information about preparing for gynecomastia surgery and lifestyle changes post-surgery. Lastly, patients can visit the website to conveniently schedule an appointment online or contact the practice with any questions or concerns.
