Enrolled Agent, Barbara J. O'Leary, has announced the launch of a new, client-focused website, created to guide users through common, and some not-so-common, financial concerns. O'Leary's firm is utilizing their website to educate the community on how a knowledgeable tax planner can help manage your finances in order to better plan for your future and properly plan your estate. The website includes numerous financial guides, as well as a set of financial calculators to plan for college, investments, retirement and more.

"When I launched our new website, I wanted to use it to provide resources that just about anybody could benefit from. Whether you're planning for college, planning your retirement, or planning your estate, there is financial advice for everyone on our site," O'Leary said.

The website possesses interactive attributes including tax estimators and a free tax organizer to help visitors make better informed decisions about tax processing and financial planning. Current and prospective clients now have access to investment strategy guides, tax strategies for business owners and individuals, IRS forms and publications, and other informative content when they visit the website. Some of the services offered by Barbara J. O'Leary include:

Tax Preparation and Planning Estate Planning Individual Taxpayer Identification Numbers

"Web technology is changing the way we all do business. Everybody knows this. But, what I love most about this technology is that it actually allows me to provide an extra layer of service to my community with practical financial advice and tools to help you build and keep more of your wealth," O'Leary said.
