) St. Paul, MN - Berger Allied, a leading moving and storage provider, has partnered with American Moving & Storage Association's (AMSA) ProMover program to help clients find reliable and professional moving solutions for all of their relocation needs. Launched in 2009, the consumer protection ProMover program certifies quality, professional movers and helps clients avoid imposters known as "rogue operators" within the industry.

The ProMover program provides clients with information and assistance with everything from finding a mover, to getting an estimate and packing tips, to understanding valuation. All ProMover partners recommended by Berger Allied moving are evaluated annually to make sure the company continues to subscribe to AMSA's program requirements of providing professional and reliable services. This distinction is a nationally recognized, industry-wide standard of conduct for professional movers.

Clients can identify ProMovers, including Berger Allied moving providers, with the programs' easily-recognizable seal which stands for a set of basic, honest business principles. Berger Allied operates 16 full-service locations in Atlanta, Charlotte, Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas, Los Angeles and Phoenix, as well as other major cities, and with the ProMover program has access to one of the largest moving networks in the world, so clients can expect to find a trustworthy, pre-approved mover almost anywhere in the country.
