( PRLEAP.COM ) PHILADELPHIA – Anapol Schwartz Shareholder and End Distracted Driving (EndDD.org) Founder Joel Feldman will be speaking at the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation's (PADOT) Pennsylvania Traffic Safety Workshop on March 20 in Pittsburgh.

Feldman will be discussing the distracted driving presentation EndDD.org developed with Children's Hospital of Philadelphia (CHOP). He will demonstrate how attendees can use the presentation to raise distracted driving awareness in communities across Pennsylvania. Feldman will also reveal how recent study results from CHOP have inspired changes to the presentation that increase its effectiveness.

"It's an honor to be asked to speak with all those in attendance at PADOT's Annual Traffic Safety Conference and to bring everyone up to date on what we have been doing to combat distracted driving," Feldman said. "I look forward to sharing ideas and developing even more effective ways to change driving attitudes and behaviors."

Feldman founded EndDD after his daughter Casey was struck and killed by a distracted driver in 2009. The campaign was created using information from the perspectives of doctors, teen experts and psychologists to effectively illustrate the dangers of distracted driving and leave a lasting impression.
