tools right on Gurian PLLC's website.

Gurian CPA Firm is announcing that they have added a suite of major technological features to their website in an effort to provide more comprehensive accounting support and convenience for clients. Individuals who visit the website can now pay their fees directly online, as well as take advantage of portal access to a full suite of tax and accounting software.

Gurian CPA Firm founder, Peter L. Gurian, CPA says that the improvements to the website are a reflection of both the contemporary way of handling business and Gurian CPA Firm's desire to provide an exceptional customer experience. "Many companies simply aren't in the age of paper and pencil anymore," he explains. "They know how expensive and time consuming it is to do jobs manually, and they know they have to use technology if they want to stay on top financially and competitively. Our goal with the tools we've added to the website is to simplify what they need to do so they can obtain or maintain a sharper edge and concentrate on their business vision."

Customers who want to pay for services can do so simply by clicking on the "Payments" tab in the main navigation menu. From there, they can indicate how much they want to transfer and enter their payment information. Gurian CPA Firm automatically sends clients who use this service an electronic receipt by email so they have documentation for their financial records.

Gurian CPA Firm's online portal is available under the "Resources" tab. When clients securely log in to the portal, they can access what Gurian describes as a "one-stop professional accounting, tax, and payroll service." It can replace popular options such as QuickBooks Online, if desired, and even allows companies to easily complete tasks, such as adding or deleting employees. It also provides tax software that can help businesses handle IRS requirements and payments throughout the year. The portal removes the need for business leaders and employees to complete many accounting tasks in office, providing an anywhere, anytime approach that's more in-line with the flexibility most modern businesses need.

"Gurian CPA Firm has always embraced technology as a way to make accounting easier," Gurian adds. "With these tools, we continue that tradition and hope to bring our clients forward."
